Commission Continues Decision-making to Adopt Draft Maps

Phoenix, AZ - The Arizona Independent Redistricting Commission continued with its decision-making process on draft maps during the week of October 18, 2021. Using the six criteria mandated by the Arizona Constitution, the commission directed its mapping consultants through a series of draft maps in an effort to create the adopted draft maps for Arizona’s congressional and state legislative districts which will be available for public review and comment. Arizonans are encouraged to watch the live proceedings as the maps are being adjusted.

During the mandated 30-day comment timeframe, staff and commissioners will hold public hearings around the state. The commission has solicited recommended locations from various communities, cities, towns and groups. Once the schedule is finalized, information on dates, times and locations will be posted to public meeting notices. The public can attend the meetings to comment in person or watch them live streamed on YouTube and Webex and provide comments electronically.

DID YOU KNOW?

An easier method to submit a map to the commission is to use the Published Plan Viewer. Individuals or groups can access the series of Draft Maps by searching the Viewer and create their own from a published map. The map of choice can be duplicated, changed and submitted. Another method is to use the Redistricting System.

MISSION: The Independent Redistricting Commission's mission is to redraw Arizona's congressional and legislative districts to reflect the results of the most recent census. The concept of one-person, one-vote dictates that districts should be roughly equal in population. Other factors to be considered are the federal Voting Rights Act, district shape, geographical features, respect for communities of interest and potential competitiveness. The state Constitution requires the commissioners – two Republicans, two Democrats and an independent chairperson – to start from scratch rather than redraw existing districts.

A new Arizona Independent Redistricting Commission was appointed in January 2021 to adopt new congressional and legislative districts for Arizona.
